Heaven on earth Explore the practical possibilities

Wolverhampton, West Midlands : Most people probably agree that heaven represents a really good state of affairs, but that all too often earth seems very far from heaven. International speaker, Daniel Scott says, “Wouldn't we all like to see more harmony expressed in our families, communities, and the world? My lecture offers a practical, powerful, and spiritual approach to improving the human condition as well as some thought-provoking ideas on the nature of heaven.”

Daniel Scott, a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, presents a talk “Heaven on Earth – Here and Now” on Saturday, 24th October, 2009 2.00 p.m. at Goldthorn Hotel, Penn Road, Wolverhampton, WV3 OER. Admission is free.

“During this talk I explore practical ideas that everyone can utilise to bring more harmony into their experience, explaining how the health and harmony we associate with heaven can be experienced more fully here and now,” says Scott. “and it’s certainly not just about personal fulfilment, I’ll discuss how to pray more effectively for world problems.”

Scott’s ideas are based on the Bible (which he sees as a textbook that needs to be studied discerningly, rather than followed blindly), and the book Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, which brings out the scientific, timeless, and universal nature of Christianity.

Daniel Scott spent seven years at Cambridge University gaining a MA in mathematics and a PhD in mathematical physics. Since 1998 Scott has been working full time as a practitioner of Christian Science healing. Scott travels internationally from his home in Scarborough, West Yorkshire. His speaking engagements have included schools, universities, youth, church and interfaith groups.
